Excerpt: . of her time between her toilet and quadrille, was so little qualified for partaking a conversation so refined as Arabella s, that her discourse appeared quite tedious to her, since it was neither upon fashions, assemblies, cards, nor scandal. Her silence, and that absence of mind which she betrayed, made Arabella conclude she was under some very great affliction: and to amuse her, after dinner, led her into the gardens, supposing a person whose uneasiness, as she did not doubt, proceeded from love, would be pleased with the sight of groves and streams, and be tempted to disclose her misfortunes while they wandered in that agreeable privacy. In this, however, she was deceived: for though the young lady sighed several times, yet, when she did speak, it was only of indifferent things, and not at all in the manner of an afflicted heroine....
