Y., Sunday Morning, April 23d, 1865 This is part of a lamentation of one mighty man over two others. In the providence of God, David was to come to the throne of Israel. He had been annointed by the prophet of the Lord. He expected that God would fulfill his word concerning him, but he had as yet no assurance, but faith in God, that he would ever be king. Saul had driven him from his sight, and hunted him from the land. For safety he had escaped to Gath, and made alliance with Achish, its king. This alliance, during its continuance, was honorable to both parties. It was kept in good faith. But it was not to continue. The Philistines would make war upon Israel, and the other lords of the Philistines, from fear of David, insisted that he should not go up with them to battle. Achish compelled David and his men to return...
