Relationship between and log P used in the brightness-distance relationship-B CPD; the diamonds are Garstangs estimates of and the solid line shows a linear fit to those points. 3. 1. 2 Zenith-Angle Effects The brightness-distance relationship does not include a model for the angular effects on observed brightness. It is used to compute brightness in the zenith direction ( i. e. , looking straight up ) only. To correct this, the effects of off-angle views and the corresponding corrections to the zenith brightness were made. Berry ( 12 ) points out that, to a first approximation, we can assume that light originating from a city is scattered through an optically thin uniform layer of the atmosphere. The brightness of the layer is then proportional to a line-of-sight ( LOS ) thickness through...
